

THE DAILY AND WEEKLY HERALD has more than double the circulation of any other paper published in Southern California. Business men recognize it accordingly as the best advertising medium South of San Francisco.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 6, 1875.

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

Moody and Sankey propose to erect a building to hold their New York meetings in. It is rumored that Vanderbilt will furnish the funds from his railroad plunder.

The steamer Orizaba leaves San Francisco for San Pedro today.

An earthquake occurred at Oakland on the 4th inst. No damage.

The Red Cloud Investigating Commission is putting up with the hard fare of the Fifth Avenue Hotel in New York.

Miss Jessie Langmaid was outraged and murdered at Manchester, New Hampshire, and a man named Drew has been arrested for the deed.

Ex-U. S. Marshal Schafenburg's friends were of the most bare-faced character.

The North Pacific Squadron is on its way to the Southern California coast from Honolulu. Rear Admiral Alford expects to reach San Francisco by February 1st.

The body of a boy named Sullivan was found yesterday between two bales of hay in a store in New York. He had been missing nearly three weeks, and was supposed to have been kidnapped.

The Court of Commissioners on Alabama claims met yesterday in Washington and made some awards.

L. N. Pond, a prominent machinist at Worcester, Massachusetts, has disappeared. He will probably be heard of as a defaulter.

Sensors Logan and Oglesby of Illinois are expected at certain changes in Federal offices in Chicago, and threaten to fight the confirmation of the new officers.

Guiberti's body is to be buried at Montreal so that it will be almost impossible to exhumate it.

THE Democracy of Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Maryland, New York, Massachusetts, California and Oregon have declared for hard money. The cotton States, embracing Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas will undoubtedly advocate a specie basis. The sands are drifting rapidly from under the feet of old Uncle Allen of Ohio.

Religious Freedom.

Nowhere in the civilized world is there such perfect religious freedom as on the Pacific Coast. The worshippers at every shrine, the champions of every creed known among civilized men, reside together in the most perfect harmony. Whether the citizen of California be a follower of Confucius, or a disciple of Jesus Christ, his rights are respected, and the fullest liberty accorded him. Jew or Gentile, Christian or Infidel, Catholic or Protestant, worship according to the promptings of their own hearts, and there are none so hardy as to gainsay their privilege. While Europe is still struggling under the curse of religious persecutions either open or silent, while Canada is intolerant, and religious hatred still bitter over most of the United States east of the Rocky mountains, absolute freedom prevails in California. The general spirit of tolerance everywhere visible in this section is witnessed nowhere else in the world. Nor does it spring from irreligion, for our people are individually as zealous in their worship as their more bigoted brethren in other parts of the world. The church steeple rises in every valley and upon every hill and every Sabbath the sun looks down upon the eager thousands wending their way to the houses of prayer.

An Indian War.

The effort to obtain possession of the Black Hills by purchase have proven abortive, and the question is now more difficult of solution than ever. The wily chiefs were infused with the land speculative spirit of their more enlightened neighbors, and demanded fabulous sums for their territory. The negotiations with the chiefs of the tribes in council having failed, the probabilities of war are greatly increased. The red men knowing the desire of the white people to obtain their territory will the more quickly resort to any invasion, while the miners, having been re-enforced by large numbers of adventurers from other sections, and confident of the moral support of the people of the country, will defy the laws and evade the scattered companies of Federal troops. A conflict therefore seems inevitable. The termination of the conflict of course will be the entire or partial destruction of the Indians on this reservation, and the occupancy of the country by the Anglo-Saxon race. Sad as may be the fate of these natives, yet, when we consider that immediate contact with civilization is equally destructive to them as the bullet or the bayonet, it is as philanthropic to slay them in open battle, as to poison them with the arts of civilized life.

Raise Hogs.

Southern California must in the future be the hog grower of the Pacific Coast. Her perennial alfalfa beds will enable her to defy competition in this great and profitable branch of industry. An acre of alfalfa will maintain at least fifteen hogs, and rear them in good order, only a small quantity of grain being required to harden the fat before sending to market. The present price of live hogs on foot in Los Angeles is six, to six and a half cents per pound. It is seldom below five, and never below four cents per pound. The Western farmer who owns three to four cents for his hogs considers himself fortunate. With such a cheap food as alfalfa swine can be raised profitably at three cents per pound. Our climate seems well adapted for this animal, and it is even more profitable than in the Western States. A Berkshire sow will litter from eight to twenty pigs—a ratio of increase that surpasses Ohio. There is a ready market in this city for all that can be raised, and within a year the San Francisco market will be opened. As fine bacon as ever seen has been put up in this section. Mr. BENNETT on Aliso street, is engaged regularly in the business of curing meat, and finds it profitable. Last season he cut one thousand hogs, and this year will pack more than double that number. Our farmers will do well to investigate the subject.

A Grant Party.

General GRANT has declared his intention to run for a third term. There is no mistaking his language, and there can be no doubt that having once squarely assumed the role of a candidate he will obstinately contend for re-election despite the opposition of friend or foe. The republic must at once recognize the position that its President has taken, and act upon this new phase in our political history. The framers of the Constitution left the period of incumbency of the President open for the future generations. It was the dangerous point in the fortification, and was purposely left open that the eyes of posterity might watch it with anxious solicitude. They foresaw all the difficulties which might follow a positive interdiction of re-election and recognized the binding obligation which custom would impose upon the future favorites of the people. The ambitious seeing no barrier to continuance of the popular favor would be less apt to seek a change in the form of government, while the people could either reward a great patriot with a prolonged term of office or depose the dangerous aspirant. Since the establishment of our government no man has offered himself for a third term as President, and the custom is sanctified by the farewell warning of the "greatest of the great" GEORGE WASHINGTON. We may well pause and reflect upon the action of ULYSSES S. GRANT then, who in defiance of the expressed opposition to his administration of the majority of the people of the country, and the actual repudiation of his secret aspirations by his own party. The late elections have shown that the people of the country oppose the President. The platforms of the various State Republican Conventions oppose a third term and they have made this declaration when it was doubtful whether GRANT would offer himself as a candidate. We may therefore pertinently ask whether it is not the purpose of the President to form a personal party and attempt a canvass on that basis? He must recognize the fact that the Republican party does not desire to carry the burden of a third term on its shoulders in its present weak condition. He is therefore compelled to force himself upon the party, or run on an independent personal ticket. In either event it does not behoove the patriot to underestimate the strength of this bold and determined man. As the regular Republican candidate he would poll a heavy vote; as an independent candidate he would so weaken the regular nominee as to ultimately cause his withdrawal. In either event, backed by the immense patronage of the Executive Department, and possessed of the vast wealth amassed by his army of office holders and personal friends; he is a dangerous competitor, and a menace to the peace of the country. The destitution of the masses in the States will render the money power of the government incalculable, and should any schism arise in the Democratic ranks to weaken their power, GRANT could make such a show of strength as to secure the thousands who always prefer to be on the winning side. We have an abiding faith in the wisdom and virtue of the people and can not for a moment believe that imperialism can find numerous supporters in this young and free country; but, at the same time we cannot hide from our view the danger which threatens at least the peace of the republic by the definite announcement that ULYSSES S. GRANT is filled with the love of power, and so elated with his past success as to deem himself more worthy the favors of the people than all the great and good men who have in the past been honored by the nation. In his role of Caesar, General Grant is a more formidable enemy to free institutions than most of us are willing to admit. His ignorance will lead him to undertake what a wise man would consider impracticable. He has been elevated to a position so far above his proudest aspirations that he is intoxicated with power, and ready to believe himself the child of fortune and the master of the country. The egotism displayed in his Des Moines speech is unparalleled and plainly indicates the forces that are working in his mind. He is determined not to return to private life, and his conduct will be pacific or warlike according to the verdict of the ballot box. From this moment let every freeman bear in mind that the integrity of our free institutions is seriously threatened, and let the nations rebuke equal the audacity of this aspiring man.

Grant and Tilden.

When SAMUEL J. TILDEN was elected Governor of the State of New York he immediately began a vigorous war upon the thieves and extortioners that had so long afflicted that commonwealth. He was not contented with the simple incarceration of the arch scoundrel TWEED and the scattering of the Tammany leeches; he has waged war upon the government robbers wherever he could find them. Neither wealth nor political influence has shielded the miscreants. After so long a record of crime and spoliation amid public office holders this course of Governor TILDEN attracted the attention of the whole country. He became the ideal of the perfect official. The people felt that the Augean Stables needed a thorough cleansing, and irrespective of party regarded TILDEN as a great benefactor. The course of TILDEN and the applause it received attracted the attention of the Washington authorities, and GRANT with his usual narrow mindedness imagined that he could out TILDEN, and so inaugurated a vigorous campaign against the thieves in the Federal service. He knew that where New York could furnish one victim the army of National office holders could offer ten thousand. There was a perfect holocaust of victims within his reach, and GRANT would be as much greater than TILDEN as his ten thousand corrupt office holders are greater than one. Then the President could seemingly give expression to that beautiful sentiment of JOSH BILLINGS; he could pretend to be willing to sacrifice all his wife's relations for the benefit of the country inasmuch as any extended investigation of the affairs of United States officials must necessarily seriously threaten the happiness of the numerous DEXT family.

So President GRANT opened the war upon fraud and corruption. His efforts have been crowned with brilliant success, and the people who had strong impressions concerning the average honesty of Federal office holders behold with amazement the swarms of thieves rushing out wherever the bush is beaten. The corruption exceeds all that the most rabid opponent has charged. Now for the parallel between TILDEN and GRANT. The New York Governor waged war upon abuses that had grown up under a former administration. The thieves he brought to justice were not of his own selection. The holes in the public treasury which he discovered and closed were not of his own making. His brothers, uncles, aunts, nieces and nephews, and the relations of his wife and brothers-in-law and marital uncles were not involved in the robberies. He began his investigations at the beginning of his term instead of long profiting by fraud and finally inaugurating the warfare to make capital for an approaching campaign in which he was to be a candidate. The President of the United States is now bringing to justice the very men he selected as fit to administer the laws and perform the public functions. Their pecuniations have extended over six or seven years. The sores he is trying to heal may be safely characterized as chronic. The mode of his warfare shows that he is endeavoring to punish those citizens who have defrauded the government rather than the officials who were in league with the defrauders. In nearly every internal revenue district have distilleries been seized for violation of law; yet how few revenue officials have felt the axe though it is patent they were in league with the distillers? His relations have been singularly overlooked in the investigations. Though there is a legion of them they are all honest men. While it is well known that the New Orleans Custom House is a hot bed of fraud, that gigantic speculations have from time shown themselves in that granite building beside the Father of waters, yet brother-in-law CASEY has never been investigated, nor have any of the notoriously corrupt clique that find shelter under his wing. For many years has the President heard reiterated the charges of fraud against both prominent and minor officials, yet he has never sought to purge the public service until on the eve of a campaign in which he is to figure as a candidate. It is not a matter of surprise then that the people of the United States should regard SAMUEL J. TILDEN as a genuine reformer, seeking after honesty in government, and ULYSSES S. GRANT as a miserable imitator exposing his own mismanagement and laying bare the frauds of which he is the true author.

For Los Angeles.

CALENTE, Oct. 5.—The following passengers for Los Angeles left the Telegraph Stage Line to-day: C. M. Lombard, Nels P. Nelson, W. Patterson, Wesley Clark, J. O. Vance and L. Michels.

Earthquake at Oakland.

OAKLAND, October 5th.—A severe earthquake, lasting three seconds, occurred at fifteen minutes past eight this evening, vibrating North and South. No damage reported.

EASTERN NEWS.

Indian Frauds Investigation.

NEW YORK, October 5th.—The Red Cloud Investigating Commission did not meet yesterday at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, as was expected. Harris and Altherton are the only members that reached the city. The Commission will probably begin their consultations to-day in regard to the conclusions drawn by each member from an examination of the testimony. The section of the commission is to be secret, and a report will be agreed on, to be transmitted to Washington before its term will be made public. Harris says the report will be long on all the charges against the Indian Bureau in regard to beef and flour. Each charge made by Professor Marsh will be considered as carefully as possible.

Government Humanity.

WASHINGTON, October 5th.—The sailing orders of the Sautawara, now fitting out at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, have been forwarded to the commander. She is ordered to Para, Brazil, where she will take aboard as many of the poor Southerners who left this country at the close of the war for an asylum in Brazil, as may desire to return to the United States. The number is not known, but the order is to take as many as the accommodations of the vessel will permit.

A horrible deed.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 5.—A man named Drew has been arrested at this place charged with the murder and outrage of Miss Jessie Langmaid, and there are fears that he will be lynched. The head of the girl has been cut off and was not found until this morning. Intense excitement prevails.

The North Pacific Squadron.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Rear Admiral Alford, commanding the North Pacific Squadron, reports to the Secretary of War and Navy, under date of Honolulu, September 29th, that he would sail from that point for Lower California and the Western coast on the 25th of Sept. to look after American interests in that portion of his station, where affairs seem to be in a somewhat unsettled state.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—A Washington special says that Treasury Agent Forney, who was sent to investigate the charges against Schafenburg, the former Marshal of Colorado, gives a graphic picture of the enormous operations of the Denver ring. Forney says that he has found that the latter had been submitted by Schafenburg at the close of his Marshal's term. Forney went out for the purpose of comparing his accounts as submitted to the Treasury Department with the original records of the court, in order to discover if there was some trifling infraction. He found the accounts fraudulent, and that they had secured payment of large sums of money to Schafenburg that amounted to practical robbery. One of the principal swindling features of the man's style of keeping accounts with the Government was in the charges for keeping prisoners. Every man who was arrested was made to figure as a prisoner in his accounts, whether he saw the inside of a jail or not. Responsible citizens would be arrested for some trivial infraction of the United States laws and would be perhaps released on their own recognizance, such persons were made to figure under Schafenburg's manipulations as prisoners in jail from three to six months, requiring the payment of $150 each day for their subsistence.

CONFIRMED.

DETROIT, October 5th.—The Standing Committee of the Eastern Diocese of Michigan to-day confirmed the election of Rev. Dr. McLaren as Bishop of the diocese of Illinois.

A Lost Boy.

NEW YORK, October 5th.—This afternoon, while the owner of a feed store at 411 Washington street was moving some hay from the rear part of the store they found the dead body of a boy between two bales. The boy was shortly afterwards identified as J. Sullivan, aged three years, who has been missing from home since the 5th of September. It is supposed he fell between the bales while playing. He was supposed to have been kidnapped, and the police have for two weeks past been on the track of the supposed abductors on Long Island.

Bowen and Tilden.

BROOKLYN, October 5th.—The libel suits of Bowen vs. Engle, Bowen vs. McDermott and Tilden vs. The Engle, were on the City Court calendar to-day, but were not called, as the counsel on both sides have made arrangements for the future disposition of the suits.

Brooklyn Bridge.

NEW YORK, October 5th.—At the semi-annual meeting of the Brooklyn Bridge Company to-day the chairman stated that the temporary bridge from which to construct the main bridge would be commenced next June. The cost of cables for the temporary bridge alone will be $40,000 to $50,000. The bridge company will have to purchase the property between the anchorages and the towers on both sides of the river. This property in New York will cost them $45,000 and in Brooklyn $53,000.

Mysterious Disappearance.

WORCESTER, Mass., October 5th.—L. F. Pond, a prominent builder of this city, has mysteriously disappeared. He took passage on a Fall River boat for New York Friday night and has not been seen since. Portions of his clothing were found in his stateroom on the arrival of the boat at New York, but no tidings of him have been received. He was heavily embarrassed financially. Various theories are advanced as to his disappearance.

Logan and Oglesby Disappointed.

WASHINGTON, October 5th.—A private letter received here from Chicago says that Senators Logan and Oglesby are very much incensed at the recent changes of Federal offices in Chicago, not merely on account of the removals, but because they were not consulted on the selection of the new appointees. Senator Logan is reported as declaring that he will oppose the confirmation of the new appointees in the Senate next Winter, and with the aid of his colleague will secure their rejection. This he proposes to do in order that his right to a voice in the selection of men for Federal offices in Illinois may be recognized, and he expects every Republican in the Senate to support him in the case.

FOREIGN.

A Dead Thing.

MONTREAL, October 5th.—With a view to render impossible the disinterment of Guiberti's remains a stake of iron twelve feet long by four feet wide is being made. This is to be covered by a stone slab, riveted and bolted. It will require ten horses to remove it. It will be finished Saturday, and the burial will probably take place a few days after.

Turkey News.

CONSTANTINOPLE, October 5th.—The Sultan has granted certain important reforms in the disturbed provinces. The Provinces will hereafter send delegates to the Grand Council at Constantinople. The heavy taxes heretofore imposed on Christians are remitted and the terms of military service decreased.

The Spanish War.

MADRID, October 6th.—The Carlist bombardment of San Sebastian has ceased. The shells did considerable damage to the city and occasioned severe loss to the Alfonists. The garrison will be immediately strengthened.

EDITOR HERALD: I must ask your indulgence for space to set myself aright before this public in regard to the publication of yesterday's Express concerning officer McFadden, myself and others. I quote from the Express of October 4th, viz:—

Mr. John McFarland called on us to-day to say that the novel operation to which he was subjected a few days since had resulted successfully. It will be remembered that officer McFarland was accidentally shot while on duty, some weeks ago. In searching for the ball the surgeons opened a long gash in the lower part of the calf of his leg. That gash refused to heal and gangrenous indications put in an appearance. Dr. Brooke was called in and out of the mortifying flesh, leaving a great hole in the leg. He then found a young man named Gillette who consented to part with a portion of his flesh. A piece the size of the hole was cut out and pasted upon it. It has adhered and healed, and Mr. McFarland's leg is as well as ever. But now comes another phase of the affair. Mr. Gillette's leg is in a bad condition, and it is possible that somebody may have to furnish him with a piece of sound flesh to fill up his wound.

The officer's name is McFadden, and the Express writer knows it as well as he knows his own.

Next, DR. BROOKE saved a gangrenous limb, but he did not "cut out the mortifying flesh, leaving a great hole in the leg."

That the transplantations have adhered and that the leg is healing is a FACT!

But that "Mr. Gillette's leg is in a bad condition" is a lie; and if I should need "a piece of sound flesh to fill up my wound," the writer in the Express need not apply.

Please publish and oblige, your friend, GEO. W. GILLETTE.

OFFICE OF CHARLOTTE CONSOLIDATED GOLD Mining Co.—The property of this Company, after considerable development, has yielded returns beyond their expectations, and every indication thus far points to still more valuable result. The various and reported assays and the result by analysis proves that there is ore yielding from $20 to $800 per ton, and the Company feel themselves warranted in the statement that these mines are permanent and valuable ledges. In view of those facts they have authorized the sale of a very limited amount of stock, for working capital, at $5 per share. The development of the property will inevitably result in the employment of a number of men in the district in which they are situated, and in the end build up a camp of no inconsiderable size, the supplies for which must be drawn from our midst. The Directors feel themselves justified in recommending this stock to the confidence of the business men as well as to the general community of Los Angeles.

Stock can be obtained of the Treasurer, Mr. C. F. Heinemann, or of the Secretary at the office of the Company, or by application to Messrs. Barbee & Gates, Brokers, 81 Commercial street.

TASTELESS MEDICINES.

A PROMINENT NEW YORK PHYSICIAN lately complained to Dundas Dick & Co. about their Sandalwood Oil Capsules, stating that sometimes they cured miraculously, but that a patient of his had taken them without effect. On being informed that several iterations were sold, he inquired and found his patient had been taking Dundas Dick & Co.'s.

What happened to this physician may have happened to others, and Dundas Dick & Co. take this method of protecting physicians, druggists and themselves, and preventing OIL OF SANDALWOOD from coming into disrepute.

Physicians who once prescribe the Capsules will continue to do so, for they contain the PURE OIL in the BEST AND CHEAPEST manner.

Dundas Dick & Co. use more Oil of Sandalwood than all other wholesale and retail druggists and perfumers in the United States combined, and this is the sole reason why the PURE OIL is sold cheaper in their Capsules than in any other form.

OIL OF SANDALWOOD is fast superseding every other remedy for Capsules OIL being required to insure a safe and certain cure in six or eight days. From no other remedy can this result be had.

DUNDAS DICK & CO'S SOFT CAPSULES solve the problem, long considered by eminent physicians, of how to avoid the nausea and disgust experienced in swallowing, which are well known to detract from, if not destroy, the good effects of many valuable remedies.

TASTELESS MEDICINES.—Castor Oil and many other nauseous medicines can be taken easily and safely in DUNDAS DICK & CO'S SOFT CAPSULES. NO TASTE. NO SMELL.

These were the only Capsules admitted to the last Paris Exposition. Send for Circular to 35 Wooster street, N. Y. SOLD AT ALL DRUG STORES HERE. aug17m
